

onlinesos.org

Emotional Wellbeing

First, make sure you

- Call 911 or Suicide Prevention Hotline if you are considering harming yourself
- Take a break from incident
 - Consider engaging in physical activity (a walk, yoga class)
 - Temporarily avoid devices or apps that are platform(s) for harassment
- Tell an ally/friend what is happening
- Confirm: Know that it's not your fault
- Decide on if and how to take a break from being online, which may include:
 - Turning off devices (computer, phone, etc.) and/or apps (including notifications)
 - Choosing to avoid/limit use of email, social media, text messaging
 - Telling people if needed (partner, children, family, employer, friends, colleagues)
 - Using other options (silencing sound, having a friend check, etc).
- Identify and enlist help from trusted allies before engaging in stressful activities related to harassment and online engagement

Next, choose what to do

Talk about it

- Call or text a crisis helpline
- Consider seeking professional counseling/therapy - consider options here
- Explore legal options by hiring a lawyer or getting legal consultation

Build a support system

- Enlist friends, family, and others to help you cope
 - Consider including supportive (on and offline) communities
- Tip:* Create plan with allies to help you manage/monitor online presence

Meet your basic needs

- Make sure you are getting adequate sleep
- Get adequate hydration (at least 8 glasses of water a day)
- Eat a nutritious, balanced diet
- Temporarily avoid substances that may exacerbate negative feelings (alcohol, etc)

Also, consider these steps

Engage in stress relieving activities

- Engage in physical activity like yoga, running, hiking, cycling, martial arts or dance
- Cultivate or deepen hobbies that you love
- Get a therapeutic treatment (i.e. massage, acupuncture)
- Visit an environment that calms you (garden, park, hiking trail, lake, beach)
- Use scents to help soothe you (lavender, etc)
- Get and use a stress ball or other stress relief device

Express your feelings

- Journal about what is happening
- Play music, create art, dance, build or engage in another creative pursuit you love

Consider wellness practices

- Develop or continue engaging in mindfulness and/or meditation practices
- Listen to affirmative messages via podcasts, videos or music
- Engage in religious or spiritual practice if you have one

Consider

- For tips on what to consider before choosing a psychotherapist, you can go to this link
- If you are experiencing domestic violence, you can go to this link to find a list of domestic violence agencies in your area
- If you have experienced sexual assault, you can get access to a local sexual assault program here
- If you want to engage in activism to stand up to online harassment, you can go to this link